

[Insert title of invention]A game whereby the players create a portfolio of fantasy shares that are held and traded by game players in an organized electronic market

Abstract

The current invention is a Sports Fantasy Game based on the internet where each Sports Figure is broken into fantasy shares and then offered and traded like securities in a continuous auction and call market auction format. Players compete for prizes by assembling the largest portfolio of shares and collecting the most dividends or payouts (dividends) based on shares they own when the Sports Figure gets points or completes specific tasks in the actual game.
